PRACTICAL INFORMATION FOR RESIDENTS

Residents at the Cité internationale des arts are attributed a studio-flat for their personal use. At the present time the Cité manages more than 320 of these studio-flats, and this imposes the respect by all of practical rules for living together: peace and quiet, security, etc. The following document gives residents a clear overview of these rules.

For any further information, please contact our staff members, all of whom wish you a pleasant stay in Paris at the Cité internationale des arts!

STUDIO-FLATS

Studio-flats are furnished and equipped. No personal furniture is allowed there. Bed sheets are supplied by the Cité internationale des arts upon arrival. Each resident is responsible for washing his or her own sheets for the duration of the residence.

PAYMENT OF SERVICE FEES

Residents must pay their service fees at the beginning of each month, at the accounts office (middle floor, building A, Marais site).

CLEANING OF STUDIO-FLATS

During their stay, residents must clean their studio-flat regularly; the staff of the Cité internationale des arts does not do cleaning work. Refrigerators must be regularly defrosted.

Before departing, residents are requested to remove all personal belongings, foodstuffs and effects from cupboards, refrigerator and storage units.

Residents are requested not to make changes in the layout of studio-flats.

COURTESY RULES

Animals are not allowed on the premises of the Cité internationale des arts.

Residents are requested not to make undue noise between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m. In the event of non-compliance with this rule, the security staff is empowered to demand immediate cessation of nuisance.

HYGIENE, SECURITY

Residents are requested to inform the reception of any malfunctioning in electrical or sanitary fittings, and of any trace of insect pests (cockroaches, etc). The staff of the Cité internationale des arts will deal with these problems.

Electrical current supplied to studio-flats varies from 2 to 3 kilowatts. Residents are requested not to modify installations without the prior consent of our technical staff. To minimize fire risks, electric hotplates must be correctly switched off after each use. As of arrival, residents are requested to learn the in-house fire drill instructions.

In the event of a problem arising, day or night, residents should inform reception without delay.

KEYS, DOORS

Residents can be given a spare key for use by their companion or visitor, in which case they must pay a refundable deposit.

The door of the studio-flat must be kept locked, even at night when sleeping. Valuables or cash should not be left in the studio-flat.

In the event of temporary absence, residents must not leave their key in their letter box. Keys should be put in an envelope bearing the resident's name, and left at the reception to be kept until claimed.

The automatic door access code is given to residents at the reception desk. For obvious reasons of security, insofar as is possible, the code should be kept secret.

The street doors of buildings A and B (Marais site) are shut at 10 p.m. to ensure security. Residents coming in or going out after 10 p.m. must leave the street doors locked. If they have misplaced their key, residents may ring the night porter in building A by pressing on the 'Appel de nuit' button. Similarly, visitors arriving after 10 p.m. must ring the night porter and give the name of the resident they have come to see.

Cité internationale des arts staff members may have to go into studio-flats for service reasons. If the resident is out, a note will signal their passage.

INSURANCE

The Cité internationale des arts is insured for all risks in which its responsibility is acknowledged. But this insurance does not cover the luggage, personal effects or works of art of residents. In the event of theft or destruction, residents will have no recourse unless they are covered by their own insurance.

Residents who are not covered by Social Security are required to take out personal health insurance.
